Don't Look Away is a report from the Representative for Children and Youth highlighting a series of significant missteps resulting in a child's death while in care. In the report, the Representative calls for both urgent and transformative change in systems of care to help protect young people across the province.

RCY supports the rights of young people and their families in dealing with and accessing government services for children, youth and young adults. The Representative provides oversight to the child welfare system, makes recommendations to improve it, and reports to the B.C. Legislative Assembly.
